More family favourites from the writers of Happy Go KL:

Yee Dental in Bangsar Shopping Centre is the most amazing pediatric dentist ever! Baby & Beyond Specialist Clinic has kind, thoughtful, well-versed pediatricians and is one of the rare pediatric clinics open late and on weekends.

You can take the kids for a babyccino at Starbucks in Bangsar Village and learn to order in sign language. Also a great opportunity to talk about inclusivity and the deaf community.

Kacaumama

We love to start the day with a jungle walk in Bukit Gasing.

APW has several great lunch and breakfast places. Kids can run around the quirky area.

The Hive is not just a zero waste shop, it's an institution. Their motto 'Honey, we don't waste' says it all. Their shops are all over KL now, but the main outlet is at 92A, Lorong Maarof.

Adventuremama

Jaslyn Cakes is a tiny bakery with great cakes on Jalan Telawi 2. Another favourite is Bisou Bake Shop. Cupcakes - do I need to say more? You can pop in or order online.

Tribeca in Bangsar Village II is a feast for the eyes and the place where I go to get presents.

Adopt, don't shop: PAWS has got an adoption drive every Sunday 11-4pm on Jalan Telawi, outside Hong Leong Bank.

Durianmama

Janie & Joe is a little store in Bangsar Village I for pretty and educational toys, such as wooden toys, puzzles or lovely dollhouses and craft sets.

The original Antipodean café on Jalan Telawi 2 has outdoor seating, a small play area inside and great breakfast options. It is often packed in the mornings, but there are other options nearby, like Yeast just next door - they do pastries to die for!

Lattemama

Cziplee is a legendary stationery shop, where both adults and kids always find a new treasure. Something that you never knew you needed, but you now, absolutely, must have. There is a bookstore upstairs with a kids' section, and they do regular art and calligraphy classes suitable for teens and up.

A day out with kids in BANGSAR

eat

1. Marmalade

at Bangsar Village II offers kid-friendly lunches and a play area for the little ones. It's the place to go for a quiet coffee when you need 5 minutes to yourself.

2. Breakfast Thieves

in AWP has got beautiful breakfasts for all, and colouring stuff for the kids. Best cappuccino to be found? Most likely.

3. Proof Pizza + Wine

also in AWP, fingerlicking pizzas. Try the gourmet truffle pizza!

4. Lisette's Cafe & Bakery

on one of the back alleys of Bangsar, does a great value brunch buffet on Tuesdays, Fridays and Sundays all within a lovely garden setting.

5. The Ganga Cafe

has super tasty and very affordable vegetarian Indian food on one of the most atmospheric streets of Bangsar. Indulge in the Sunday buffet.

6. Yellow Brick Road

at Plaza Batai has the best pancakes ever! Nice tables both inside and out and, as a bonus, a kids' nook upstairs. Try the Apom Terbalik pancake for a truly Malaysian twist or the Drew Berry More with meringue and berries for a decadent treat. All halal.

outdoor fun

18. Taman Tugu

is a 66-acre stretch of forest right in the heart of KL. With 4kms of trails currently open to the public, it's a fantastic place for an easy hike with kids. In addition they have plenty of weekly activities for kids.

19. Lake Gardens

has a huge playground, lots of paved walkways and green grassy areas with picnic tables. Come early to park next to the playground, or park at the central car park.

20. Kebun-Kebun Bangsar community farm is a magical place for urban kids. Drop off your compost, pick up some fresh harvest and play with the chickens and ducks.

21. Bukit Gasing

is a green lung south of Bangsar. You can do easy to medium hikes up and down the hilly jungle. There is a parking lot with toilet facilities, and you will find a map of the trails at the entrance.

get active

7. KizSports & Gym

is a good indoor gym for younger ones with an array of climbing equipment, slides and multiple ball pools. Also a number of classes.

8. Jungle Gym

in BSC has a large play structure with all the usual tunnels, bridges, and colourful obstacles. There's also a roller skating arena next door.

9. Jurassica

at The Gardens Mall is a hit with dinosaur fans and young explorers. Dinosaur exhibits, play area and lizards and spiders on show are great for kids aged 3-7.

10. Royal Malaysia Police Museum

may be small but it's full of information on the Malaysian police and it's free! Added bonus are the police vehicles on display!

11. Breakout Escape Room

at Nu Sentral is especially great for teenagers. There is also a cinema at this mall for a full day of fun!

12. The Rift

The Rift at Mid Valley touts itself as the largest virtual reality park in SE Asia. From 3D to virtual reality and augmented reality games, there is something there for kids 7 and up, and for Mums and Dads.

13. Butterfly Park

in Lake Gardens captivates young and old alike with all that fluttering! It's not stroller friendly but very walkable even with tiny ones in tow.

14. Bird Park

is the place to meet some of the most impressive bird species in Malaysia. It is stroller friendly and has a decent restaurant.

15. National Science Centre has lots of buttons to push and is great fun for toddlers and primary school kids. Though a bit worn around the edges, it is great value at RM6 per entry. Do check out the play area with a paddling pool, too!

16. Thean Hou Temple

with great views and lots to explore is worth a visit any time of the year, but particularly during Chinese New Year.

17. Kids E World

is a bright indoor playground at the Gardens Mall.
